Mexico Campus Construction

Clockwise from top: Concrete slabs being placed; Concrete finished; First vehicle to use bridge; Metallic rails in place.

Last November Pete Beal from Dix, Illinois, started the construction of a bridge for cars to cross the irrigation canal that divides the Mexico Campus. He laid the foundation and built five reinforced concrete slabs. This past month he and some of Colegio students have continued and completed the project. The cement structures were pulled into place and secured and ramps and railing were done as finishing touches. Thank you Pete for all your hard work!!
